International Studies Program Offered at Victor Valley College

The Department of Political Science announced this week the development of an International Studies certificated program. Classes in the program will offer students a well-rounded education in the theories and methodology of global events.

The certificate will not be limited to students majoring in political science. Many non-political science students will find this certificate useful as it will augment their applications to top-notch universities by showing diversity in their education.

For more information, students should contact Dino Bozonelos in the Political Science Department by calling 760-245-4271, Ext. 2791.
