

Definition of E-Lecture:

Definition of E-Lecture:

For the purposes of Regular Effective Contact, an e-lecture consists of the electronic delivery of original and course-related instructional content prepared by the instructor of a class and made available to students within the district course management system. E-lectures may be delivered in a variety of formats, including text-only content pages, posted documents, transcribed audio recordings with or without synchronized slides, and captioned video recordings.