Evaluation of Institutional Effectiveness (AP 1202)

Institutional effectiveness at Victor Valley Community College is evaluated through an annual cycle that includes unit and division program reviews, institutional-level data and analysis, and the assessment of student learning (see Diagram 1 below). Four key factors define institutional effectiveness and guide its measurement and improvement at Victor Valley Community College.

- Student Success
- Access to Programs and Services
- Responsible Resource Management
- Standards of Excellence

Institutional effectiveness outcomes for each of these four factors are shown in Appendix A.

Some of this information is gathered ~~through~~ through District annual program review and planning processes, which are governed by Board Policy 3250 and related administrative procedures. Other sources of information will also be used in order to compile an annual report of the District's institutional effectiveness.

The Annual Report is a comprehensive assessment of institutional effectiveness that incorporates unit and division program reviews, shared governance committee and Faculty Senate recommendations, and institutional data on student success and access, resource management, and program and service improvement. The Office of Institutional Effectiveness compiles one Annual Report for public dissemination that highlights District accomplishments and areas of focus for the coming year. A second and more comprehensive and detailed Annual Report is prepared as a resource for internal planning and quality improvement purposes. Both reports are presented to the District Board and will be made available, respectively, to the community at large and the District workforce by the start of the next academic year.
